PROVIDENCE COLLEGE
MBA Program

PC's MBA Program is on the move. Enrollment has grown 40% in the last five years, and we receive applications from students all over the region.

The cost, quality and flexibility of the program, combined with our recent No. 67 Bloomberg Businessweek ranking for part-time MBA programs, makes PC an appealing option for students. The cost of tuition is approximately $24,000 and classes are held in the late afternoon or evenings — perfect for working professionals. We continue to receive positive student satisfaction scores from our graduates (85%) and excellent placement post-graduation placement rates (90%).

MBA Programs

The full-time and part-time programs are excellent options and can be completed in 12 to 24 months, depending on the student's academic background in business. A full-time student with a degree in business can usually complete the program in 13-14 months, including the required internship. Part-time students can usually complete the program in two years and have up to five years to complete the degree. Full-time students enroll in a minimum of three courses and a maximum of four courses per semester. Part-time students enroll in one to two courses per semester.

New Summer 2017

The accounting cohort is designed for students who will complete their undergraduate business degree in accounting, and who want to prepare for the CPA exam. Core courses help prepare for future management positions, while the accounting electives help prepare students for the CPA exam. PC students have indicated that because courses are offered in the late afternoon, this course of study provides significant time for part-time work or graduate assistantships, while also allowing time to study for the CPA exam. Accounting majors complete the program in 13-14 months, including the required internship.
