Nicholas A. Sirianni ‘05
Partner
PwC

Nicholas A. Sirianni is an assurance partner in the Asset and Wealth Management practice of PwC, based in the Boston office. Nick has experience serving corporate, alternative and registered fund clients, providing external audit, attestation and internal control advisory services.

Nick currently serves as engagement leader to several of PwC’s largest Asset and Wealth Management clients in the Boston office and is the Firm Relationship Partner to Providence College. Earlier in his career, Nick undertook an international tour in the financial services practice of PwC’s Amsterdam, Netherlands office, serving a diverse base of private banking, structured finance, hedge fund and private equity clients. Nick’s background and client service history have provided him with significant experience in valuation practices for fixed income and private equity investments, reporting requirements for SEC registrants (including ’34 Act filers, mutual funds and BDCs), corporate mergers and acquisitions, and technical capabilities under both IFRS and US GAAP.

In addition to his client service roles, Nick has also worked to research, develop and deliver industry thought leadership around current developments in mutual fund distribution. He currently serves as engagement leader for the Investment Company Institute Transfer Agent Themes and Billing Practices Survey and has been a key contributor to the last three editions of PwC’s Asset Management Seed Capital Survey.

Nick is a 2005 alumnus of Providence College, is a CFA charterholder and a CPA (licensed in Massachusetts). Nick serves on the Massachusetts Council of Champions for Citizen Schools, an organization devoted to advancing youth STEM education in underserved communities.
