

Marketing is an art and a science, and students in PC's Department of Marketing are empowered to excel in both. Our students not only learn theoretical concepts and acquire the tools and analytical skills they need to succeed, they also learn to think critically about the impact of marketing on global society. Through engaging, hands-on learning opportunities and the diverse perspectives encountered in core classes, our students gain confidence that sets them apart. In turn, they're able to market what is most important: themselves.

B.S. Marketing

Success in marketing requires quantitative and qualitative skills. Our program is designed to develop both through a broad-based business curriculum. Courses focus on developing analytical, creative, and organizational skills, as well as the ability to communicate clearly and teaching the practical methods for identifying and responding to consumer demands for products and services. Students are introduced to the theoretical concepts and applied tools — such as market research techniques and digital strategies — needed to succeed in today's fast-paced global marketplace.

Minor

The marketing minor is a tailored set of six courses that are intended to provide breadth in the marketing discipline and depth in specific thematic areas, leading to potential careers in sales, digital marketing, advertising, media planning, or brand management, among others. Each course includes a hands-on marketing project to provide an experiential component to the minor.
