Andrew Tuccio '14
Owner
Tuccio Properties Group

Andrew is the owner of Tuccio Properties Group. Tuccio Properties Group acquires existing stabilized, value-added, and development properties in the greater Boston area. Prior to forming his own company, he spent more than 5 years at Gansett Ventures, a boutique development company based in Boston. At Gansett he was responsible for the end-to-end development of more than 650 units in Boston and portfolio management. He was also an adjunct professor of real estate finance at his alma mater Providence College. Prior to joining Gansett, he spent more than 3 years working in finance in New York City. Andrew graduated from New York University with an MS in Real Estate Development and Providence College with a BS in Finance. He is the Chair of the Providence College Real Estate Committee and co-founder of the Just Do Your Best Scholarship.
